

Allowing LPFM stations to take priority over FM translators has the potential to disrupt valuable public services, such as K-Love (heard in the Denver area on 91.1). K-Love serves the community interest by informing residents of events in their area that can assist in their personal growth, as well as by playing music that is not only uplifting but, in some cases, literally life-saving. On October 21st, a teenage girl decided not to kill herself because she heard K-Love play Greg Long's "Mercy Said No". Please do not allow LPFM stations to take priority over such wonderful services as K-Love.

(My apologies if you've received this comment twice. I didn't get a confirmation the first time I sent it.)